

	Giving a presentation in a formal setting	Listening and responding
Excellent	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explores complex ideas effectively • Confidently presents ideas and information in an engaging and enjoyable way, making regular eye contact and keeping open body language. • Vocabulary is carefully chosen to suit purpose, audience and topic – attempts to be ambitious • Uses non-verbal features to engage the audience and will use little/no prompts • Enjoyable and engaging to watch • Thoughtfully organised 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Can draw out responses from others through questioning • Can draw upon and develop other speaker's ideas • Can sustain leadership roles and responsibilities given within the group and will shape overall direction of the talk
Proficient	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explores ideas effectively • Confidently presents ideas and information in an engaging way, making some eye contact • Vocabulary is chosen to suit purpose, audience and topic • Uses non-verbal features to engage the audience • Clear, and engaging to watch • Clearly organised 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Can draw out responses from others by directing others to join in • Can respond to other speaker's ideas with some explanation • Can sustain leadership roles and responsibilities given within the group
Developing	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explains several ideas • Presents ideas and information with some attempts to engage the listener • Vocabulary is chosen to suit purpose, audience and topic • Attempts to use non-verbal features to engage the audience • Clear • Attempts to organise with some success 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Can respond to other speaker's ideas • Can take on secondary roles and responsibilities given within the group
Acquiring	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explains one or two ideas • Presents ideas and information in a transactional way • Content of presentation/ talk may not be clear • Basic attempts to organise 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Can answer direct questions • Can take on roles and responsibilities given within the group, with support